

CORONAVIRUS TESTING

Following a recent Government announcement, critical workers in England and members of their households who are showing symptoms of coronavirus will now be able to get tested.

WHAT DOES THIS MEAN FOR YOU?

As a critical worker, this will give you the reassurance of knowing whether your symptoms are caused by coronavirus and can help decide whether you are well enough to return to work.

WHAT DO I NEED TO DO?

If you or members of your household are showing symptoms of coronavirus, you will need to refer yourself for a test using the following link: <https://self-referral.test-for-coronavirus.service.gov.uk/>

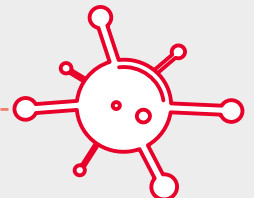

Test results from drive-through sites will be sent out by text within 48 hours, and within 72 hours of collection of the home delivery tests.

If your test result turns out to be negative, you can safely return to work, as long as"

- You are well enough
- You have not had a high temperature for 48 hours
- Anyone you live with also tests negative

If your test result is positive, or someone you live with tests positive, you cannot return to work and will need to continue self-isolating.

We may ask you to share the results with us.

NEED MORE INFORMATION?

You'll find more guidance in the link below, and you can also speak with your Line Manager or the HR department: <https://www.gov.uk/guidance/coronavirus-covid-19-getting-tested>